Building the New CE Railway Economy

Regional Rail Link (RRL) is a reference project of Australia's transport system which aims at eliminating the agglomeration in the railway network. The project, worth over AUD 4 Billion (USD 3.5 Billion), includes the construction of 90 km of new railway from West Werribee Junction to Deer Park and, along the existing railway corridor from Sunshine to Southern Cross Station, providing seamless transport for the passengers living in the cities of Geelong, Bendigo and Ballarat, through the metro system.
